

New Owners to Take-Over Century City Hospital

Tenet's one hundred bed hospital in Century City has escaped closure. Tenet, which is in the process of selling or disbanding many of its hospitals nation-wide, will sell the Century City Medical Plaza to Salus Surgical Group LLC.

Salus, headquartered in Beverly Hills, will operate the hospital under a new name, Century City Doctors Hospital, as a full-service acute-care center and will offer emergency medical services. However, it is not clear yet whether it will maintain an Emergency Room at the hospital.

While Salus plans to expand its operations in California and other states, Tenet will close or sell up to eighteen hospitals in Southern California. Tenet's deal to sell the hospital to Salus must be approved by state regulators.
